Samaritan Counseling Center of Southwestern Michigan Confidentiality Policy

Samaritan Counseling Center of Southwestern Michigan (“the Center”) is committed to a strict standard of confidentiality to protect the Center, Board of Trustees, employees, interns and students, and clients. Therefore, it is our policy that any direct or indirect use or dissemination of confidential information relating to the agency, board members, employees, or its clients except as provided by law or the Center’s policies and procedures is absolutely forbidden.

This policy applies to any and all confidential information regarding board members, staff members, clients, and the business and affairs of the Center. By agreeing to this policy, you are agreeing that you shall not use for yourself, nor disclose to others, during the term of your service or any time thereafter, any confidential information belonging to the Center or relating to its business position, employees or clients. You further agree that all case records, case histories, or other files and materials concerning the Center and all its dealings shall belong to and remain the exclusive property of the Center. Any breach of this policy will be strictly enforced to the fullest extent allowable by law.
